THE world of business and good news generally regret the untimely death of Lewis Rodman Wanamaker, who died at 61 years old. Much useful work was crowded into his two short years. In 1883, at 20, he became his father's partner, and when John Wanamaker died his son Rodman became head of the entire business in New York, Philadelphia and Paris. President Wanamaker had spent 10 years in the Paris branch of the store, familiarizing himself with and managing the importing departments.

HERITOR of a great fortune, that he helped build, Rodman Wanamaker was a life of continuous hard work. He was active in business and in politics, to which he devoted his time. And he was foremost in the development, financing, the new phase of transatlantic flight, and he was to offer airplanes at retail in his New York store. Messrs. Appel and Whelan and his other close associates have lost an inspiring co-worker.

WHERE are the bears of yesterday? Answer, they are rubbing their heads. Three million seven hundred thousand shares of stock sold yesterday in a terrific boom day, with General Motors skyrocketing above 100. The bears had to buy back, as best they could, stocks sold short, in defiance of good advice offered here.

DON'T gamble, long or short, just now especially. But whatever you do, don't sell this country short. There are stocks called "high" selling below two hundred and below one hundred, that with capable and honest management will sell some day for the equivalent of one thousand.

NEXT year California will spend $25,000,000 on good roads, and California has more good roads than any other state already. In consequence, California leads in automobile ownership, which means family comfort. If other states, with good roads, could build up automobile ownership as California has done, there would be $25,000,000 instead of 24,000,000 automobiles running in this country. Other states might think that over.

BN SAUD, king of the Hedjaz, has begun his "holy war" against the British under British mandate. Let us in charge of our Nicaragua man, who with old Mother Britain, and her boys the thing should be done. The British are missing airplanes, with bombs and machine guns, that will fly above armored "tanks."

KING BEN'S holy warriors will know in a few weeks things that are not mentioned in the Koran. And this time Mohammed will be there to throw a handful of dust into the air and see the devil come suddenly into legions of fighting angels. He did that once. But tanks and airplanes have discouraged such legions.

THE magician Houdini, who exposed spiritualists' tricks, feared that he would be made to talk from "the beyond." He left a three-letter code word with a friend, saying, "If any spiritualist talks with me and begins with that word you will know it is my spirit talking." Even the code word would not help him. It might be guessed.

THE wise Arabian philosopher said, "If you said twice two are three and to prove it I shall change this stick into a serpent, and if you actually changed the stick into a serpent, I should say, that is interesting, but twice two are not three."

SO with spirits talking from the beyond. They don't do it, for this reason. Our ears hear only sound waves made by solid, material organs. Spirits have no such organs. They may talk interestingly to each other. But they cannot talk to us, no matter what the lady with the tambourine may say.

CHILD who this year has seen 250 robberies, 11 bombings and 55 murders, is now in Chicago. So last Thursday morning Chicago citizens prayed for peace. They should pray also for a solution of the prohibition-booth problem. Bootleg profits in Chicago amount to $100,000,000 a year. That is a lot of money. But you stop it. It will have crime, highly organized.

TWO Mexican boys in Nicaragua were killed when a flying buzzard fell on them in their plane. Responsible to the government that put them out of order so easily. The buzzard would write, that bird would be a David and the plane their Goliath.

Whitfield Shot After Prison Escape

CLEVELANDER CAPTURED IN HOME OF GUARD

Slayer of Policeman Wounded When He Attempts To Knife Captors

OFFICER BEING HELD

Getaway Made from Dormitory; Uses Rope Ladder Over Walls

Columbus, March 10.—J. L. Whitfield, 31, of the Ohio State Penitentiary, who escaped early this morning, was probably fatally shot here today when he was captured at the residence of a guard, Oren Hill. Whitfield was placed in the prison hospital at noon. He had been found guilty of first degree murder of Patrolman Dennis Griffin of Cleveland.

When Whitfield's absence was discovered at 6 a. m., today Warden Thomas ordered Guard Hill to be confined in the penitentiary, and dispatched his secretary, Daniel Bonzo, and a city detective to Hill's residence. Shortly before noon Bonzo and the detective were assured that Whitfield was hiding in an upper room. When they battered down the door, they reported, Whitfield was discovered. He was armed with a long butcher knife, which he held, as he raised his arms above his head, to signify surrender.

Both Fire At Him

As the men approached the fugitive, his captors reported, he dropped his arms and sprang at them. Both men fired, they said, one of the bullets plunging through his abdomen, and the other taking effect in his side.

No charge, so far, has been placed against Hill.

Hill's wife was at the residence when the officers arrived, and told them a man was in a room upstairs, but that she knew nothing further.

Warden Thomas reported that he had played the bunch of searching Hill's residence when he was told that Hill brought a bundle into the prison when reporting for duty last night.

Esca from Dormitory

Whitfield escaped about 2 a. m. from a dormitory where 250 wooden mill workers were under the guard of three men, and after changing his prison clothes for civilian garb, made a rope ladder of his bed clothes, and dropped over the penitentiary wall.

The crowded penitentiary can not accommodate all prisoners with single cells, so wooden mill workers slept in a dormitory, with two guards in the room, and one making the rounds outside. The dormitory is located in the grounds of the prison enclosure near the ball diamond.

Whitfield's escape was not discovered until after 6 a. m. today, after the night guard had reported off duty. The discovery was made when one of the turnt men noticed the rope ladder dangling from the outside of the wall. Whitfield entered the penitentiary Aug. 9, 1923.

RECALL ARREST

Whitfield Located in Detroit After Chase Over Five States

Cleveland, March 10.—Leonard Whitfield, who escaped from the Ohio Penitentiary today, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison from Cuyahoga County nearly five years ago, for the slaying of Dennis Griffin, Cleveland policeman, May 11, 1923.

Following the murder, the search for Whitfield covered five states. He was finally located hiding in a Detroit lumber yard.

The original charge against Whitfield was theft of spark plugs, and two policemen had been assigned to watch his house. When Whitfield drove into his yard in his own car, the two officers arrested him and Griffin took him in charge, the other patrolman leaving.

JOHN M. IDEN ENTERS RACE FOR SHERIFF

Caledonia Man Announces He Will Be Candidate for Republican Nomination

The entry list in the race for sheriff of Marion County was increased to three today when John M. Iden, of Caledonia, announced that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Others who previously tossed their hats into the ring are John Francis, former sheriff, and F. W. Higgins, employee of the Marion Lumber Co. Francis seeks the Republican nomination and Higgins is a Democratic entry.

Several additions to the list are expected, according to current political gossip, indicating that the contest for sheriff will be one of the liveliest of the coming campaign.

Iden is 43 years of age and is a life-long resident of Marion County. He is now engaged as a stockbuyer and farmer.

LaRue First in County to Enter Star Oratory Meet

Carl Whitman To Represent School in Preliminary Elimination Contest

LaRue High School, one of the most active units in student affairs in Marion County's educational system, was the first to enter a representative in the county elimination contest for the International Oratorical Contest which the Marion Star is sponsoring in this district.

Carl Whitman, one of the student leaders in the school, is to represent LaRue High School in the preliminary event scheduled for March 20, entries for which close March 18. The winner of this event will represent the county schools in competition with orators from city and county school systems in six other counties surrounding Marion.

This contest, which will be held in the Star Auditorium on April 20, will decide the winner in this territory, who will take part in the state contest in Canton on April 27. Cash awards of $75, $50 and $25 will be given to the three highest in the territory final.

That Whitman is well qualified to represent his school may be judged from his record. He is president of the senior class, was president of his class during his sophomore and junior years, vice president of the student council in 1927, president of the council this year, orator for his school in 1927 and 1928 in the county event, member of debating team in 1926, 1927 and 1928, president of dramatic society in 1927

Party Financial Records For Republican Campaign Destroyed By Fred Upham

Testimony Given by Former Secretary Fails To Enlighten Senate Committee on $60,000 Liberty Bond Fund Revealed by Will H. Hays

Washington, March 10.—All financial records of the Republican National Committee for campaigns up to 1923 were destroyed by the late Fred Upham, national treasurer, on the eve of the 1924 campaign, Irl G. Hipsley, his secretary, testified today at the Senate inquiry into the Continental Trading Company's $3,080,000 Liberty Bond "slush fund."

The records for 1923 and early 1924, Hipsley said, were destroyed in May, 1926, after Upham died.

This revelation blocked efforts of the Senate Public Lands Committee to learn what became of a $60,000 Liberty Bond fund given Upham by Will H. Hays, who got the bonds from Harry F. Sinclair. Hipsley said he had never

MOTHER GIVES LIFE

Makes Vain Attempt to Save Her Baby From Flames

New York, March 10.—Mrs. Anna Reina gave her life early today in a vain attempt to save her six months old baby from flames that spread from a kitchen stove in their home here.

The baby, Frank, Jr., died in the fire and Mrs. Reina succumbed in a hospital.

Neighbors attracted by the woman's screams found their efforts to aid her blocked by a locked door, which was finally broken down by a taxicab driver. The kitchen was a roaring furnace, but the chauffeur rushed in and dragged Mrs. Reina to the hallway.

When firemen subdued the flames the baby was found dead in its crib.

FINDLAY MAN WITHDRAWS AS HOOVER PLEDGE

Frank E. Hoy, Listed as Secretary's Eighth District Candidate, Deserts

JOINS WILLIS BACKERS

Formal Notice of Decision Sent to Fred W. Warner, State Chairman

A miniature bombshell was thrown into the ranks of the Hoover forces of the Eighth Congressional District today when it was announced that Frank E. Hoy, Findlay man listed as a Hoover candidate for delegate to the national convention had withdrawn from the race and gone over to the Willis forces. Hoy is a former sheriff of Hancock County.

Hoy's declaration of candidacy was filed several weeks ago and arrangements were already under way at the Marion County Board of Elections office to place his name on the Eighth district ballot in the presidential preference primary April 24.

The Findlay man's written notice of withdrawal, addressed to the Marion County Board of Elections, was sent to Fred W. Warner, state Republican chairman, who filed it today with A. W. Kette, clerk of the board.

Although Hoy's statement is brief and gives no explanation for his action, the fact that it went direct to Warner is regarded as a certain indication that the Findlay man has aligned with the Willis cause, Warner being one of the leaders in the fight to land the Ohio congressional vote for Willis.

Warner, in fact, makes it clear that Hoy will be found in the Willis ranks from now on. This is a result, the state chairman asserts of Hoy having learned of "Hoover's former connections with British interests."

In this statement, Warner refers to the charge that Hoover at one time was agent for a British syndicate which sought to obtain concessions in China through questionable methods. These charges were outlined by the state chairman to Page 5.

RADIO BROADCASTING SYSTEM IN BALANCE

House Considering Watson Bill Aimed at New York and Chicago

Washington, March 10.—The nation's radio broadcasting system was placed in the balance today as the House took up the Watson bill.

Proposed originally only to extend the life of the Federal Radio Commission for one year, the bill has assumed wider proportions through the Davis amendment which directs a wholesale redistribution of broadcasting licenses.

Frankly aimed to eliminate scores of stations in New York, Chicago and other cities, proponents of the measure condemned what they declared was an over-dose of jazz music in the country's radio programs.

Under the amendment of Representative Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee, added to the bill by the House Merchant Marine Committee, the Radio Commission would be forced to divide broadcasting licenses, station power and wave lengths equally among five zones in which the country is divided. In addition, the commission would have to bring about an equal division in each zone.

"Investigation shows that more than 62 per cent of stations power is concentrated in two zones, including New York and Chicago," said Davis. "Every high-powered station is in the hands of the radio monopoly."

"While a few congested centers have got more stations than can occupy the air, the south, far west and New England are denied licenses."

DONAHEY AS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE IS PREDICTED

Oak Harbor, March 10—Vic Donahey for Democratic nominee for the presidency, was the possibility being discussed in Ottawa County today, following the prediction made here last night by C. E. Wharton, Kenton, head of the National Federation of Farm Clubs.

"Donahey will be nominated at Houston on the fourth ballot after a deadlock between two other candidates," Wharton predicted. He was speaking at a meeting of the Ottawa County Tax League.

MAN HELD UNDER BOND

Duston, March 10.—W. L. Thompson is at liberty under $2,500 bond here today, following his plea of not guilty today to a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails. The charge is said to be in connection with correspondence to a Kentucky girl. The hearing was conducted late yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Rogers.

WILL WEDDING BELLS RING?

Capital gossip has it rumored that this well-known couple are engaged. Of course it is John Coolidge and Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Connecticut's governor. Mrs. Coolidge had the young folks to dinner at Northampton, Mass., recently, and the word got back to Washington rumor-runners.

ANYTHING GOES

Liquor, Women and Death Outstanding Art Subjects

NEW YORK, March 10.—Liquor, women and death are favorite themes depicted in the 1,300 paintings hung on the walls of the Waldorf Hotel at the twelfth annual exhibition of the Society of Independent Artists which was opened to the public today.

It is a dizzy, fantastic display, ranging from the sublime to the ridiculous. "Anything and everything goes." There is no critical jury to reject and select. Any artist who releases $5 may have two pictures shown. It is reminiscent of amateur night at a theater.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SIGNS ALIEN BILL

Measure Will Restore Millions of Dollars Worth of German Property

Washington, March 10.—President Coolidge today signed the alien property bill.

The measure thus becomes law. It will restore to German owners millions of dollars worth of property seized during war time, and settle millions of dollars worth of claims of Americans who suffered damages at German hands prior to our entry into the war.

MARKET BREAKS ALL DISTANCE RECORDS

Total Sales of 2,225,300 Shares Crack Saturday Session Mark

New York, March 10.—With total sales of 2,225,300 shares, the first time in history that the transactions exceeded two million shares on a Saturday session, the stock market broke the most of its long distance records today.

With the exception of Radio Corporation, which jumped 13 points to 121 in a sensational upsurge, attended with heavy trading, the industrial leaders lagged ground. General Motors sold off about two points, General Electric made only a fractional gain, United States Steel sold fractionally lower, and Hudson Motors lost about a point.

Radio Corporation absorbed the bulk of the spotlight from the start. A block of 25,000 shares sold at the opening at 114, up 6 1/2 points from Friday's close, and the stock forged ahead at such a pace that it was impossible for traders outside of the floor of the exchange to keep up with its movements. The final report of stock sales were printed on the ticker at 14 minutes after 12 o'clock and the ticker was from seven to 15 minutes behind the market all the way.

CHILD DIES

Overcome By Smoke And Gas As Home Burns

Cleveland, March 10.—Albert Greenberg, four, died today the result of inhaling smoke and gas fumes after being trapped in the blazing basement of his home here last night.

Battalion Chief William Carmack and seven firemen fought their way through clouds of smoke and gas fumes to rescue the boy after fire, believed due to an overheated furnace, broke out in the Greenberg home. Immediate resuscitation attempts proved futile and the lad was removed to a hospital where he died this morning.

PAPERS RAPPED BY WILLIS IN ADDRESS

Senator Talks to Supporters at Luncheon in Columbus Hotel

Columbus, March 10.—"The question that is presented to the Republican voters of Ohio and the country is: Are they to make their own nominations, free, unfettered and unaided, or are they to permit a chain of newspapers, that have always fought Republican policies and opposed every Republican administration, including that of President Coolidge, to make the nomination for president of the United States for them under the threat that, if such authority is not given, these newspapers will swing their influence, whatever it may be, to Gov. Al Smith of New York?"

U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis, "favorite son" candidate in Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination, made the above declaration here this afternoon while addressing Willis supporters at a luncheon in the Deshler-Wallich Hotel. The luncheon was attended by Republicans from various parts of the state who are aiding Willis in his fight against Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover for Ohio delegates to Republican national convention. Those delegates will be chosen at the statewide presidential preference primaries April 24.

"As the campaign proceeds, no doubt the chain newspapers will fully explain their reasons for supporting their candidates for each of the two parties," Willis continued. "It is because both of these candidates are the internationally-minded."

"It is to be assumed that their views are the same with reference to the League of Nations? Do these newspapers contend that their candidates entertain similar views with reference to the tariff? Do they claim that the positions of their chosen candidates are similar with reference to the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcement?"

RESCUE WORK ON ROBERT LEE IS UNDER WAY

Carry Passengers from Vessel to Cutter in Power Life Boat

DIFFICULTY ENCOUNTERED

Ship Grounds Off Manomet Point; Heavy Seas Hamper Work

Plymouth, Mass., March 10.—Work of rescuing the 203 passengers and crew from the stricken liner Robert E. Lee off Manomet Point was under way today.

In a coastguard power launch 10 passengers were carried to the side of the coastguard cutter Taconara. A few minutes later another power life boat rolled and pitched from the side of the stranded ship carrying 10 more persons to the coastguard cutter. When a sufficient number are aboard the Taconara they will be conveyed by that craft to Plymouth.

The start of the rescue work was followed by watchers on shore through glasses.

Women Given Precedence

In the town here, near historic Plymouth Rock, landing place of the Pilgrims, eight motor buses awaited the arrival of those who spent a memorable night aboard the Robert E. Lee.

Women were given precedence over men in the first transfer.

The transfer was being accomplished without accident. The surf boats of the coastguard lined up alongside the Robert E. Lee and the passengers went down the swinging steps and rope ladders and were assisted into the small boats by the coastguardmen.

Some passengers were transferred to coastguard patrolboat No. 176 which was riding at anchor not far from the Taconara.

Able to Ride Breakers

The first boat load of 10 were transferred by Captain Cashman of the Manomet coast guard station. After hours of unsuccessful attempts to launch his surfboat Captain Cashman and his men finally were able to ride the breakers and reach the side of the Robert E. Lee in safety. While the work of rescue was going on hundreds of persons, including scores of relatives of passengers aboard the stranded liner, lined Manomet Beach and prayed for the success of the undertaking.

Break of a bitter cold and snow down today found rescue ships riding the heavy rollers in a howling nor'easter blow near the stranded liner with daylight a welcome sight for her 150.

REV. WILEY S. YOUNG HEAVY FIRE LOSER

Overheated Stove Caused Blaze; $1,000 Lost on Furniture, Books

Fire, believed by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland to have started from an overheated stove, shortly after 8 o'clock last night caused $1,000 damage to furnishings and books and $500 loss to the building at the Ohio Memorial Church parsonage, Duvidson.

Rev. and Mrs. Wiley S. Young, occupants, who were in Prospect conducting an evangelistic campaign at the time of the blaze, announced that the loss of $1,000 to furnishings and books was not covered by insurance. The dwelling was insured.

Firemen battled the blaze for more than an hour before it was brought under control.

Among the articles in the home damaged by the blaze was a large desk containing valuable papers. A section containing records of the Marion County Ministerial Association, of which Reverend Young is secretary, was destroyed along with the copy of Reverend Young's sermon prepared for Sunday.

Reverend and Mrs. Young's pet dog, which had been locked in the home, was rescued by firemen.

THREE BOYS SENT TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Youths Plead Guilty to Truancy Charges in Juvenile Court Here

Three Marion boys who ran away from home on Feb. 22 with the intention of going to Florida and who ended up in the hands of authorities at Hiram, Fla., about 10 days later, were sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School yesterday as a penalty for their truancy.

They are Allen Campbell, 15, whose home is on the Harding Highway a short distance west of Marion, Ellis Williams, 10, Gay-st., and Paul Eymon, 14, Thompson-st. All three are being held at Marion County Detention House at Wallace-st. and will probably be taken to the industrial school at Lancaster early next week.

All pleaded guilty to truancy charges when taken before Judge McNeal in Juvenile Court yesterday afternoon. Following disappearance of the boys on Feb. 22, local authorities were notified by the parents and a search was started. No trace of the trio was found, however, until last Saturday, when a message was received from Richmond officials, stating that the wanderers had been picked up there and had disclosed their identity.

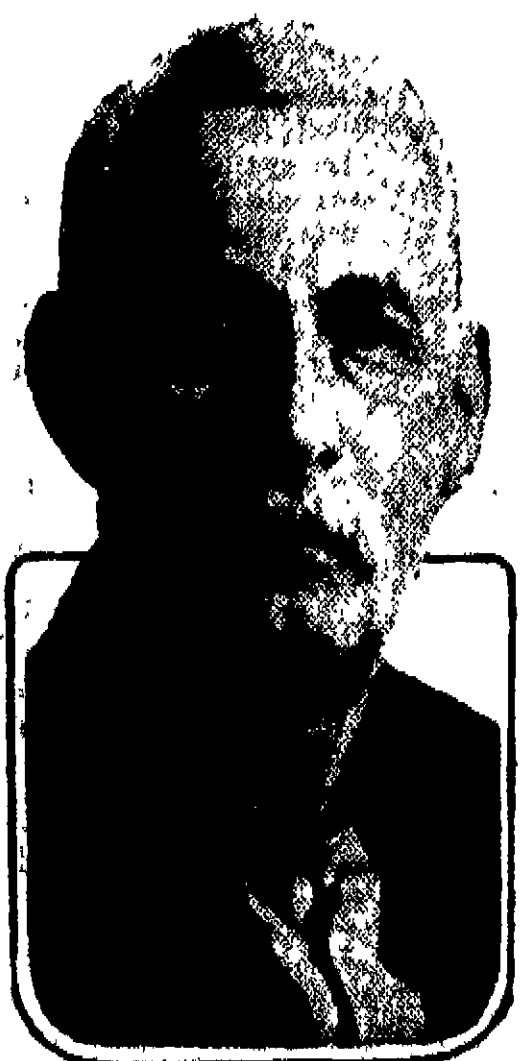

They were almost entirely without

GREEN CAMP FARMER

Never Before Saw Anything So Wonderful—Now A Happy Man.

Sykodoner — As Usual, the Reason.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: I hardly know how to express my new found joy and happiness. I have lived on the same farm, near Green Camp, Ohio, for 45 years—within two miles of where I was born, 68 years ago. Until about a week ago, I looked and felt more like eighty. Now I look and feel, at least, many years younger—and all because of what the wonderful Sykodoner did for me, in so short a time. It is simply marvelous. Why,

I had suffered, more or less, for thirty years, and took enough medicine to start a young drug-store; only to become worse as I grew older. I could no longer do my farm work—not even walk ten rods to the barn. My dear old wife had to do the chores during the severe cold weather, until kind neighbors attended to that—thank the good Lord. I suffered something terribly—no one else can even realize what I endured. I suffered with pain, almost all over my entire body; and especially in the left side, kidneys, arms, neck; and almost choked to death. The doctor "shot" narcotics into my veins, every day or night, for almost a week. He finally told me that he could do nothing more for me. Now what was I to do? That was the all important question. I was in despair. My stomach was so acid I took almost five pounds of baking soda. For weeks I could barely sleep. I grew worse from day to day. All hope was gone, and I resigned myself to the hands of God. Like a message from heaven, my attention was finally called to the famous Sykodoner—the wonderful new treatment which is creating so much excitement in Marion, now. I lost no time in getting to the Sykodoner Man. Well, that same night I slept sound as a log, and ever since. I awoke with all pain and sufferings gone; and husked corn all that day. Two days later I helped my neighbor butcher hogs, and was not even tired that night. Now can you imagine anything so wonderfully delightful to a sick and discouraged sufferer? I think not! My joy has no bounds. I am making this statement voluntarily—was not solicited; for I feel it my moral duty toward my God and my fellowmen, that this great and glorious Sykodoner work be made known to all. Why, I feel like shouting it from the very house-tops. Any one wishing to know more about what this marvelous discovery has done for me, will please not hesitate to ask me.

funds when found by the Richmond police.

The only explanation given by the boys was that they wanted to travel and to visit Florida. The Williams boy, local court official's son, ran away from home on two previous occasions.

They were brought back from Richmond last Tuesday by V. H. Allen, local juvenile court officer, and Mrs. Allen.

HARRY C. HAMNER IS RETURNED TO MARION

Former Resident Arrested on Writ of Attachment Issued in Court Here

Harry C. Hamner, former Marion resident, was arrested at his home in Columbus early this morning on a writ of attachment issued from the Marion County Probate Court, charging him with failure to file an account as administrator of the estate of his father, Robert C. Hamner, who died here about two years ago.

Hamner is now in the county jail, where he will be held for hearing before Probate Judge McNeal, Monday. He was arrested and brought to Marion by Deputy Sheriff Vance Ireland.

The writ on which the arrest was made was issued by Judge McNeal, who says that Hamner ignored orders from the court to appear and file his administrator's account. The last order for his appearance was dated Dec. 25, the judge adds.

This is said to be one of the few Probate Court cases on record here in which arrests have been made for failure to make accountings. The court up to this time has no report of Hamner's handling of his father's estate, Judge McNeal says.

The estate, estimated at approximately $4,000, included a residence property in the city of Marion. There were four heirs, all members of the Hamner family. Hamner has been employed in Columbus as a paper-hanger.

NORRIS-WHITE BILL DEFEATED IN HOUSE

Backers of "Lame Duck" Resolution To Renew Fight at Next Session

Washington, March 10.—With the Norris-White proposed constitutional amendment to end "lame duck" sessions of Congress killed because it could not command a two-thirds vote in the House, backers of the resolution today declared that the fight would be renewed in the next session of Congress. After passing the measure almost unanimously, the measure got 200 votes in the House to 157 against it, or 25 votes shy of the two-thirds necessary to submit a constitutional amendment to state legislatures.

The vote climaxed a fight which has been waged since 1925 to amend the constitution to abolish the short session of Congress in even numbered years, in which no bills who have been defeated at the polls, still serve.

To abolish this session it was necessary to change the date of presidential inauguration. The Norris-White measure before the House sent Congress into session on Jan. 4 and made the date of presidential inauguration on Jan. 21.

CLEVELAND PASTOR IS LENTEN SPEAKER HERE

Archdeacon Gerald P. Patterson of Cleveland, executive secretary of the diocese, will preach at the Lenten service next Friday night.

You Can Bunk Broadway, But Main Street is "Out"

(Chicago, March 10.—Main Street knows a theatrical grocer's life. Barrymore, America's leading actress, says:

"Shows that depend upon indoor scenes are 'bunk' outside New York City, she says. 'They quickly fall by the roadside. Only good plays stand the test of the road.'

And Ethel should know whereof she speaks. Not only has she played in every city of the country but she is one of a theatrical family that has given three generations of stars to the stage. Since infancy the theater has been her 'home' and drama her 'fare'.

Different Now

The present day theater Miss Barrymore finds, has plenty of 'bunk'.

"There's a lot," she stated. "But no more, perhaps, than in politics and other professions."

Right there she made it plain that, although "bunk" gets across in New York it fails in smaller cities.

"You can bunk Broadway, but not Main Street," was the way this indescribably radiant actress put it. New Yorkers fall for every stage Tom, Dick and Harry that lands from a steamship, she says, if there is enough 'ballyhoo' to put him across in the newspapers.

Home Talent

The sad part is that our own good American actors are left out in the cold, according to Miss Barrymore.

"We have the best actors and actresses on earth. Why shouldn't we keep these foreigners out? We bring in too many of them."

"I think we should patronize and develop our own native talent—young ambitious girls and boys from our inland cities and towns who pour into Broadway theatrical offices only to find parts taken by outsiders."

Her own children—and there are three—she doesn't mention for stage careers. As we talked sitting in her dressing room, these three bright youngsters, Samuel, Ethel and John Drew, smiled down at us from photographs above the makeup table.

What a pity, I thought, if the Barrymore theater tradition was not carried on—even through the "bunk" period of our American stage.

SOON TO DETERMINE LAKE CARGO'S FATE

Case May Be Thrown into
Federal Court Following
Action of I. C. C.

Washington, March 10.—Whether the Lake Cargo coal case will be thrown into a federal court for removal action, following the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit railroads serving southern mines shipping coal to Lake Erie ports for transshipment to the northwest, to reduce freight rates 20 cents per ton, will be determined by the southern operators within the next 10 days.

As a preliminary step to the proposed litigation, the commission today referred to the southern operators the entire record in the case, which was an attempt on the part of the principal southern coal carrying roads to meet the 20 per cent cut in freight rates on Lake Cargo coal given to Ohio and Pennsylvania mines last summer.

The southern operators, following a series of conferences with representatives of the railroads handling their lake cargo shipments, have practically determined to test the commission's latest decision in the courts, but there are several phases of the case that require consideration before legal action is taken.

75 in Conference

The details of the proposed litigation will be worked out by the operators' Lake Cargo Committee, of which James D. Francis of Huntington, W. Va., is chairman.

Gov. Hoxsard M. Gore of West Virginia, who took an active part in the negotiations here, pledged the cooperation of that state in any action that may be taken to overthrow the commission's decision giving Pennsylvania and Ohio mines a substantial differential over southern mines in Lake Cargo shipments.

About 75 of the principal operators involved in the case, together with representatives of the Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western and Louisville and Nashville Railroads, participated in the conference here.

They Tame 'Em For Cal

South Dakota Governor Has Fish All Set and Fat for Coolidge's Visit to Black Hills,
Says Will

BY WILL ROGERS

All I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I see as I prowled over the old tax-ridden commonwealth. I started out on my little tour at Chicago. I figured I will hit the toughest first, let the bullets fall where they may. Got out of there great, as the people were just switching from the machine guns to the "bombs," so it was a kinder off day for casually.

Expensive business. I don't see how it is that people can afford to live in Chicago and afford to change with the times. Now they switched from pistols to Machine Guns, and now from Machine guns to Bombs. I can't see how a poor man can afford it. The next jump I can think of that they make will be battleships, and tanks; they can take that Chicago drainage canal and bring the battleships down it. Well anyway we had a fine bunch and mighty appreciative audience. Chicago people are mighty fine when they live.

She was a dark and stormy night. But instead of taking the old train I went out to the airport and grabbed the air mail from Omaha. Had Pilot Myers, a good one. (They all are) The Plane from New York was late on account of HEAD WINDS, and we was two hours late in getting out, there was so much snow on the ground it was hard taking off. We got stuck once.

They sent up a balloon to get the velocity of the wind and it blew the balloon back down, so Myers says, "We got a head wind before we start. If we can hold our own against it we will do well. The chances are when daylight comes we will still be flying right over the hangar here, that is if we don't lose distance and get blown back. But I believe we can hold the distance we start with."

Just A Beginning
But we did pretty good. We hit Iowa City about three hours after we had left Chicago, or about one in the morning. That's where the University is located where all the Californians get their early training. They go there and learn how to get to Long Beach, Cal. It's a kinder preparatory school for Stanford.

But Iowa is doing mighty fine. Hogs is low but spirits is high. They feel that no account of next year being a Presidential year that the Republicans will give them a fine crop. She is a great State is Iowa. I brought 'em all word from relatives out in California. I told 'em "They all send love and say it is lovely out there, the oranges are ripening, roses are in bloom, the sun is shining, so just keep on sending more money." Played Des Moines, Waterloo, and Sioux City, hopped over into my old friend's State, the Governor of South Dakota, Governor Buelow. He is the fellow that made such a hit at the Jackson day dinner in Washington. The furthestest North Democrat in the World. For a

The old Governor wants me to come up there next summer, as he figures that Cal won't have to come west next year on account of not having to appeal to the farmers. The interest of the Farmers will be divided between 10 Candidates, on each side this summer, so Cal's interest in him will be kinder casual. So he offered me the lodge and the same creek. But I am holding out for the State of South Dakota to furnish half the Liver, I want living quarters and 50 percent of the Liver fat and trim. I am going to fish for 'em like he said though. I am just going out on the porch to call 'em and cook the first ten that comes.

Mouser, who represents Marion in the fight being waged against rate increases by a group of Ohio cities, will take as his subject, "The Citizens' Side of the Gas Question."

Mouser, who is special counsel in the attorney general's office, was in Marion today on legal business. Yesterday he addressed a meeting of Morrow County officials at Mt. Gilead held for the purpose of discussing the new state highway code. Mouser's work in the attorney general's office is in connection with the highway department.

While here, he announced that attorneys representing the cities in the gas rate fight are preparing a brief covering their side of the case which will be filed with the state utilities commission next week.

They allege that the local heirs have been in possession of the heirs here and that no report of proceeds has ever been made.

TAKE 263 PERSONS OFF STRANDED BOAT

Rescue Work on Robert E. Lee
Gets Under Way in Heavy
Seas

Anxious passengers and a crew of 113 officers and men.

Wedged on a sunken reef, known as Mary Ann Reef, one mile and a half off Manomet Point, the Robert E. Lee was pounded all night by a raging sea. S. O. S. calls brought the coast guard cutter Tuscarora across Massachusetts Bay from her station at Cape Ann, the salvage ship Falcon from the grave of the sunken submarine S-4 at Provincetown.

The submarine tender Hughell and the mine sweeper Malahad, also from Provincetown, and a 35-foot power boat from the Sagamore coast-guard station manned by six brave coast-guardsmen.

Night of Anxiety
Flowing her way through the gale up the coast came the New York City Boston liner Washington to take aboard the passengers from the stricken Robert E. Lee.

The U. S. S. Bushnell and the coast guard cutter Tuscarora, heavily recruited, were the first rescue craft to reach the vicinity of the wrecked steamship. Both ships were in communication with the Robert E. Lee.

The imperiled passengers emerged from a night of anxiety. The Robert E. Lee, in swinging toward from her course in the gale in an effort to reach the Cape Cod Canal, tore a hole beneath the waterline and began taking water fast.

The first message stressed the need of immediate assistance but stated: "No panic aboard."

Sea Too Rough
"Still pounding badly. Getting worse. Snap out of it." Were among the messages shot from the antenna of the radio of the Lee.

"Can't launch lifeboats. We are on reef and water too shallow" went back a message to the Tuscarora. Then began to come the reassuring message: "Everyone O. K. no panic" later: "We are lying comfortably now. No immediate danger. Hope we can transfer passengers after dawn."

A message from the U. S. S. Bushnell said: "Standing by until morning. Will make an attempt to take off passengers except in extreme emergency. Stay too heavy for us to approach close."

Relatives making inquiry by telephone and telegraph added to the list of those known to be aboard the liner. Among them was Richard Abrell, representative of a fare register company, of Dayton, Ohio; Oscar Williams, a well-known Lowell, Mass., advertising man; Simon Bernard, retired Boston clothier; Herbert Harlan, of Helleville, N. J.; and John R. Donnelly of Worcester, Mass.

Slayer of Policeman is Captured in Home of Prison Guard

In a police car. Later Griffin started with Whitfield in the latter's own machine, for headquarters.

Two days after Griffin's body was found in an isolated section of Georgia County, partly buried. His uniform and mace had been used to dig the shallow grave, was found nearby.

Recognized in Restaurant
The subsequent search for Whitfield revealed that he had maintained two homes here, that a young girl with whom he had been keeping company was missing and that he had drawn his money from a local bank.

He was traced to Toledo, thence to Chicago. The girl was with him. It was said, and he was following his trail—spark plug salesman.

Sometime later, recognized by a restaurant proprietor at Madison, Wis., while dining with the girl, Whitfield escaped when police arrived to arrest him.

MOTHER IN PRISON, REPENTS WHIPPING

Dramatic Police Court Trial
Held in Filled Kansas City
Auditorium

Kansas City, Kan., March 10—In jail today because she could not pay a $100 fine, Mrs. Charles Woodside, former circus lion tamer and mother of 10-year-old Lorene Jones, repented whipping her daughter with a clothes hanger.

In a filled City Auditorium last night a dramatic police court trial was held. Women fainted, many tears were shed, prayers were offered and hundreds of persons on the outside clamored to get in.

Lorene, who last week failed to give her mother an account of her whereabouts when she was out late, was the complaining witness and alleged she had been punished in an unusual manner. Several witnesses testified as to the "spiritual attitude" of the daughter and Mrs. Woodside failed to defend herself.

"I will be crucified before I testify against my child," Mrs. Woodside told Judge Fred H. White. "I'll plead guilty." Then turning to Lorene, she sobbed:

"Lorene, dear, did you have me arrested of your own accord? Tell me. If you did, I'll plead guilty and do a year in jail," she declined to take the witness oath.

Miss Inez Mackintosh, a teacher in the school which Lorene attends, kept the girl from answering. The teacher said she wanted to sit the girl in defining the wishes of her mother that she study to be a teacher.

Mrs. Woodside was sent to jail when she failed to pay the $100 fine assessed by Judge White.

Daily Proverb—"A good presence is a letter of recommendation."

The Washington Star reports that a hen in the zoo there is laying green eggs. Doubtless making preparations for St. Patrick's day.

Noting that Mr. Hoover has entered his name in the Indiana primary, one naturally begins to wonder whether a Hoosier endorsement would prove an asset or a liability.

It must be a matter for regret to Governor Jackson that there isn't a statute of limitations he can trot out against the demand of the ministers of Indiana that he resign.

Berlin expended $250,000 to entertain the Afghan king and his wife, which rather goes to show that esteem for royalty still dwells there.

Announcement is made that two new varieties of plums have been developed in New York state, but interest will be materially lessened when it is stated that they are of the edible and not the political variety.

It is planned to erect in New York City a monster tower building in honor of Mussolini. Can it be that such a physical reminder of Benito's greatness is necessary to keep fascists in line over here?

A Washington scientist is trying to weigh the world. It's bound to prove something of a proposition, considering how difficult we often find it to be to weigh our fellow-men individually.

Workmen entering an Indiana mine which had been sealed up last October found a rabbit, which speedily revived when given food. We were afraid that Texas horned road story would start something.

Representative Blanton, of Texas, has published a list of all the speakasies in the precinct in Washington in which he resides. No doubt Tom's effort is appreciated by the thrifty.

It's hard to understand why the American Telegraph and Telephone company should announce at this late date that it has an apparatus for scrambling sound over the radio. Why, about everybody we know has one of 'em.

Yesterday's despatches told us that a Massachusetts man of seventy-six had sued his sixty-year-old wife for divorce; that a Denver woman of ninety-six had divorced her fifty-six-year-old husband; and that a Salt Lake husband of 103 and his wife, aged ninety-five, had agreed to separate. These youngsters are bound to have their flings.

A young woman who took an active part in the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration in New York, and the anti-Fascist rallies there as well as to the textile strike in Passaic, New Jersey, has been arrested at Houston, Pennsylvania, for urging a revolt against all government and expressing her longing for the time when the soviet form of government would prevail in the United States, all of which naturally sets one wondering how soon she can be bundled aboard a ship and started for her "dear Russia."

Death of Rodman Wanamaker.

Not only those of our citizens who knew him personally, but also all who knew of his philanthropies, his thoughtful generosity, his many acts of kindness to those less fortunate in a worldly way than himself, learned with regret of the sudden death of Rodman Wanamaker, Friday, in Atlantic City.

Mr. Wanamaker is held by some qualified to speak advisedly as having been the greatest merchant of his time. Not only did he stand high in the achievements of the mercantile world, but he was known internationally as a philanthropist and a patron of the arts and sciences. He it was who backed Commander Byrd in the latter's flight to the North pole and his later non-stop flight to France. He was interested in many civic enterprises of praiseworthy character in New York City, took an active interest in the New York police department, and as a special deputy police commissioner and later as president of the board of deputy police commissioners did much to develop the force into a high-class law-enforcement organization. A great music lover, he was a collector of fine and rare old musical instruments in which he is said to have invested fully a million dollars, not hoarding them to gratify a hobby as many collectors do, but utilizing them by having eminent artists use them in concerts of the highest order in his auditorium.

Rodman Wanamaker was probably the world's greatest exponent of the value of life insurance. He gave it the highest endorsement possible; that of purchasing it to such an extent that he was known as the world's heaviest life-insurance policy-holder, being profited with carrying insurance on his life aggregating $7,500,000.

It is something of a sad commentary on humanity that Rodman Wanamaker may be numbered among that relatively very small group which makes it possible to classify him as a worthy and notable son of a worthy and notable father.

The Zinovieff Letter Controversy.

The statement of the editor of the London Daily Mail, given publication in that paper this week and disclosing that the famous Zinovieff letter did not come from J. D. Gregory, who was discharged from the British foreign office for alleged complicity in speculation in French francs, but from another source, has further added to the mystery surrounding the case. It had been supposed that the leak was from the foreign office, but the Daily Mail editor announces in his statement that the letter was passed on by the foreign office to the home office, the war office and the admiralty before publication occurred. Thus there are four possible sources of the leak where it had been assumed there was but one.

The letter was alleged to have come from the soviet Russian leader, Zinovieff, and urged the radical element to overthrow what it called the "bourgeois" government in power three years ago and make Great Britain bolshevist. The British radicals called the letter a forgery, and Zinovieff denied that he was author of it, which, it may be said, may be taken as pretty good evidence that he was, for we can not recall a case where that particular bolshevist has been known to tell the truth, when the truth could possibly be evaded.

Ramsey MacDonald was the premier at the time of the publication of the letter—the head of a labor government—but the government was not sufficiently radical to suit either the Russian bolshevik or the British radicals. MacDonald gave the letter out for publication at the same time denouncing bolshevism, but the damage had been done by the publication of the contents of the letter. All said England revolted against the bolshevist plot and the labor government was swept out of office to be succeeded by the present government.

Now the controversy has been reopened and is being waged as vigorously as before the election which effected the overthrow of the labor government, and Ramsey MacDonald has made a demand that a thorough investigation be instituted and the result made public.

Assuming the letter genuine, the important part it played in English history was justified, but assuming that it was a forgery, there is little to be said for such a form of political trickery. While it is not possible to undo what has been done, the demonstration that it was a forgery would show that an outrage had been perpetrated upon the labor government of which MacDonald was the head. Naturally, the former premier would have this established if possible. But there is one weakness in his position. He complains that the essence of the letter was made public to influence the election, which is doubtless true. On the other hand, it has been shown that the labor government planned to withhold publication of it until after the election, which goes to show that, regardless of the authenticity of the communication, the labor party also was playing politics.

Possibly it might have been just as well for all concerned had not the controversy been reopened.

One hundred thousand citizens of Chicago took part in the day of prayer held up there looking to the freeing of that city from political graft and bringing to an end the seeming partnership between her criminal element and some of her law-enforcement officers. Somebody should remind them that the Lord helps those who help themselves.

Monster All-Metal Monoplane.

Another evidence of the rapid development of the aeroplane was afforded, this week, when the giant British monoplane, inflexible, the world's largest all-metal plane of that type, was given a successful trial flight. The monster machine, which is capable of carrying twenty persons, has a wing spread of 150 feet and a dead weight of fifteen tons.

Reports from London, describing the machine, state that the landing wheels are seven feet and six inches in height, and that the tall rudder rises from ten to twelve feet above the fuselage, which with the tall wheel on the ground is easily six feet above the ground level. The cabin is about twelve feet high and correspondingly wide. The motive power is furnished by three Rolls-Royce Conquest engines of equal size which develop an aggregate of 1,950 horsepower.

And now let all of us of middle life recall how we read in disbelief that down in Kitty Hawk one of two brothers by the name of Wright, who had been experimenting with a heavier-than-air machine of their invention, had actually made it a sustained flight.

A big squad of detectives and policemen having guarded the transferring of $100,000 in gold from the steamship, Vauban, to a New York bank, it developed that the gold was put aboard the Vauban at Trinidad by an aged negro, who made half a dozen trips with a wheelbarrow to convey it from the bank down there to the dock. Can it be that we are suffering from over-civilization?

Poems That Live.

GIE ME YOUR HEART.

"Oh, give me your heart, my lass,
Oh, give me your heart, my lass,
I mean your heart, my lass,
Across the bitter sea."

"I love the dimple in your chin,
The soft light in your eye;
Sure, it was but a moment's sin
To give you love to me."

"Oh, laddie, what a heart you've got,
Why plead you earnestly
Ye canna have, before we part,
What is not mine to give."

"Alas! alas! my moorland pride
That I should live to hear yourself
Ye boast yourself another's bride
Withouten sob, or tear."

"Oh, diuna ye remember well
Our days of love and bliss?
Oh, ken ye not that pang of hell
May slumber in a kiss?"

"How can ye smile upon my woe
With merry lips and eye?
Oh, heartless lass, I winna gae,
But bide me here, and die."

"Puir laddie, what a heart you've got,
And canna read a smile
How can I grieve before we part,
What ye've had at the while?"

—Thomas Emmet Moore.

INSTEAD OF BIRTH CONTROL, WHY NOT CONTROL AFTER BIRTH?

Vigorous Old Age.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
A short time ago I read this from the pen of William S. Sadler:

"Health is a matter of sowing and reaping; we can not expect an increased health harvest without indulging in a preceding season of intelligent health sowing."

There can be no doubt that the foundation of adult health is laid in childhood. Many a case of chronic indigestion in middle life is the result of the bad eating habits acquired in youth.

This generation is a much healthier and stronger and more vigorous generation than any that has preceded it. The growing boys and girls of today are bigger and stronger than were their parents. It is not at all uncommon to find the child of a father and mother, who are both small in stature, to be big, husky, taller than the parents, and better developed in every particular.

The fact that we are more sturdy and possess a greater expectancy of life than our forefathers, is the result of health education. We are reaping the harvest of increased health because the precepts and seeds of health were sown by our parents. Our practices have been better than were those of our forefathers. We have better health and longer life because of the intelligent health sowing.

Boards of health, the public schools, the pulpit and home, food alliances, women's clubs, associations of parents and teachers, the radio and the public press, are sowing the seeds of health. If health is really a matter of sowing and reaping we cannot fail to have an increased health harvest by reason of these health activities.

Everything that a man has will be his for his life. When each of us comes to realize that life and health depend upon the giving of attention to the things that make for health, then we will study the problem so that there may be intelligent health sowing.

There can be no doubt that knowledge is power. If we know the rules of hygiene, and then have sense enough to practice them, we will add years to our expectancy of life. We are going to reap what we sow. Common sense should teach us that we can not have health and vigor if we indulge in over-eating, wing eating, late hours, lack of sunshine and fresh air, all of them favorable to the growth of the seeds of disease.

On the contrary, if we learn how to choose our foods and then select them according to rule, if we keep our bodies clean by the free use of water inside and out, if we purify the blood by going into the sunlight and breathing fresh air, if we eat simple foods and think clean thoughts, we are sowing the seeds of good health. The harvest of such sowing is long life, mental vigor and an unending influence for good.

Editorial Comment.

UNCLE SAM AS WORLD BANKER.

That American foreign investments now stand at the highest level in history is indicated by the compilation just issued by the Foreign Policy association of New York. Its summary shows that these foreign loans are now approximately fourteen and one-half billion dollars, and if the war debts are included the total valuation reaches an aggregate of $25,000,000,000—which is several billion more than the record of Great Britain when its foreign investments were at their high tide.

These figures may be said to be all-inclusive, since they comprise not merely publicly offered loans but also issues placed privately, as well as American purchases of foreign industrial securities, and properties abroad not connected with the sale of securities and loans and advances made to foreign governments, states, municipalities and corporations extending a year or more.

With the exception of loans in Germany, our foreign financing seems to have increased the world over—that exception being probably due to the current controversy regarding the status of German commercial loans in the light of treaty obligations, as well as the imposition of a 10 per cent. coupon tax in that country.

For years American dollars have found a greater market in Europe than in any other part of the world, the present total investment being $1,327,000,000. Our next best financial customer is Canada, where $3,322,000,000 is invested. Next come Central America, $2,014,000,000, and South America, $2,240,000,000, with China, Japan, and the Philippines trailing.

Since the World War the United States has forged far to the front in financial affairs and her position as world banker now seems assured for a long time to come. The many important projects developing in the commercial field everywhere are destined to draw more and more heavily upon American financing, increasing recognition of American prestige in world commerce.—Illinois State Register.

AIRCRAFT FATALITIES.

An interesting report on aircraft fatalities made public by the bureau of aeronautics of the navy department following a study of a large number of accidents demonstrates that the human and not the mechanical factor is chiefly responsible for mishaps. Stating that a 340 per cent. improvement in safety had been brought about in six years, the report points out that eighty per cent. of the fatalities for this period can be traced directly to personnel. Bad air judgment and inexperience are cited as the two principal faults of the human element in flying and the report strongly recommends that service aviators spend more time aloft in order that experience may be gained and instinctive judgment developed.

With the 340 per cent. improvement in construction and safety, it is up to the personnel to match this record in the human factors of flying. In the early days of aviation, when the wings of the plane were liable to fold up in the air if subjected to unusual strain, or the motor, after a short period of running, would be prone to go dead, the few hardy souls who went aloft literally took their lives in their hands. Now, however, with aeroplanes generally safe and well constructed, man must prove himself capable of meeting mechanical improvements with additional mental and physical abilities to cope with the unusual conditions of the upper atmosphere.—Washington Star.

THE SPERRY BEACON.

Donated by E. G. Sperry, the world's largest air beacon is soon to be erected atop one of Chicago's skyscrapers to guide night fliers on their way. The Sperry revolving searchlight will be placed on a 1,300 foot tower, will develop more than 1,000,000 candlepower and will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. Its rays will be visible up to 300 miles and on clear nights air mail fliers leaving Cleveland for Chicago will be guided by its powerful light after they have flown only eighteen miles west from the former city. The huge size of the new light can better be understood, perhaps, by comparison with the standard air mail beacons, which are of 2,000,000 candlepower and are visible from forty to seventy miles.

Mr. Sperry's gift is a notable contribution to the development of night flying in which great success has been scored by the intrepid aviators of the mail service. One of the vital safety factors for those who speed at better than 100 miles an hour over sleeping cities and countryside is a well marked, easily discernible trail, and air beacons of great power are the accepted means of casting a guiding light aloft. Mr. Sperry's donation to the city of Chicago is, therefore, welcomed and appreciated in the world of aviation.—Washington Star.

Noon Dethroned.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"Today—February 1—I read in the papers that the sun rises 15.6 sun sets 5.14. But isn't this incorrect? Noon is the point dividing the daytime into two equal halves, the correct report should, sun rises 6.56, sun sets 5.04. Please send me an article on this.—W. S. New York.

Noon does not ordinarily divide the daytime into two equal parts as reckoned by our time-keepers. Sometimes the forenoon is longer; sometimes the afternoon. The difference arises from the fact that clocks and watches do not keep true sun time. A solar or sun day is the time taken by the sun to make one apparent revolution around the heavens from the noon meridian of any place, back to the same meridian, as indicated by a sun dial. But because the earth's motion in its orbit around the sun is variable, being faster in winter and slower in summer, and because, also, the apparent path of the sun around the sky lies at an angle to the plane of the equator, the time taken by the sun to pass from noon to noon to the next is not always of the same length.

But clocks and watches can not be made to keep step with these irregularities, so they are constructed to run at an even rate in order to indicate the passage of exactly twenty-four equal hours from noon to noon. But only four times in a year does the clock noon, at any place, coincide with the real, or sun, noon. The clock noon is called mean noon; the other when sun time and sun time coincide are called true noon. On April 15, June 14, September 1, and December 21. At all other times the clock is either ahead of, or behind, the sun at noon. The difference, called the equation of time, varies from day to day.

Suppose we start with December 21, when the equation is 0. Then the interval from sunrise—actual sunrise—to noon is practically equal to the interval from noon to sunset. But the clock then begins to gain on the sun, and the hour hand reaches the noon mark before the sun is on the meridian. Consequently the forenoon, measuring from sunrise to clock, or mean, noon, is shortened and the afternoon is correspondingly lengthened, the difference in length between forenoon and afternoon is, in every case, equal to twice the amount of the equation of time for that day.

Four times in a year the equation of time reaches a maximum, but the different maxima are not equal. Thus, about February 11 the clock noon is about 14½ minutes ahead of the sun noon; about May 14 clock noon is about three minutes thirty seconds behind sun noon, and then the forenoons are slightly lengthened; about July 26 the clock is again about 6½ minutes ahead, while about November 3 it is about 16½ minutes behind, and once more the forenoons are longest, only to become shorter after Christmas.

But these variations in the relative length of the forenoons and afternoons are small compared with the difference produced in "standard time," and especially in the summer months by "daylight-saving time," whose effects in causing an apparent displacement of the noon sun are added to those resulting from standard time. What daylight-saving time does is to make us adopt the noon of places fifteen degrees, or one hour east of us. Thus, on the basis of standard time, daylight-saving makes Chicago adopt New York's noon, while Denver adopts Chicago's, and San Francisco adopts Denver's. New York's daylight-saving noon is the standard noon of Halifax. But when by this displacement of noon an hour is subtracted from the forenoon two hours are added to the afternoon.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Paris Sights and Scenes.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

Paris, March 10.—Nothing is quite so surprising as Paris night life these days. It is off season, but even so it is a far cry from the average of nocturnal gaiety. So many of the famous Zells has been locked up and added up for three months.

Zells is comparable to Texas Guinan's waltz, she was going full tilt. Customers never left until the sun was dapping the boulevards through the chestnut trees. Joe Zelli is an Italian who came to Paris via New York and was immortalized in an old Smart Set story.

Next Door to Zelli's.
He does not greet patrons with "Hello, Sucker!" His formula is different. He stands at the entrance, and when a party enters calls to his head waiter: "The royal chow is in the prince!" The tightest of tightwads will not order beer when he thinks he has been mistaken for a member of nobility.

Many haunts still open at midnight for the fugitive patronage. The gigolos are there, and so are the "for hire" dancing girls, but the tables are mostly empty. Paris is becoming a daytime town, and even tourists are following the Parisian custom of early to bed.

Josephine Baker, the dusky Harlem performer, who became one of those sporadic "rages," has her own club, but it was half empty the night I was there. Josephine sat at her table with her reputed Italian count, a dapper young person who could pass for Michael Arden, and tried for his mustache. I thought he would twist it off.

Another club, popular last year, were only one-third filled. The only American I saw in any was Earl Carroll's brother, Jim, who sipped a cup of coffee and was merrily there to see an Argentine dancer with the idea of booking her for America. "Slirk! lurk! mortuary chapel," he observed dolefully.

Near Place Pigalle there is a wicked place for those caring for such. It opens at 1 a. m. and drinks are served by girls whose costume can not be described for the simple reason they do not wear any. But that is old stuff in Paris. Night life may grow better. It can not grow worse.

The perfume salons of Paris offer a fragrant beauty and grace, but

MISS HORTENSE BRECKLER, of New York City, held secretary of the Council of Jewish Women, was a guest speaker when Mrs. Ella Katz entertained members of the Marion Section of the National Council of Jewish Women at a one o'clock luncheon yesterday at Hotel Harding. Miss Breckler gave an interesting talk on the work of the organization which she stated was one of the oldest women's organizations in America.

"The council is recognized by the United States Government as a national organization doing work for its migrant women, children and detached girls," Miss Breckler stated. "It is a part of an international organization having councils in seven countries in Europe. The American Council, composed of 34,000 women, sponsor a national program which raises a budget of over $100,000 a year, much of which goes for Americanization work. The council also has an extensive program centering in interest on the women in the farm and rural districts, covering the religious, education, and health field. Statistics show that there is a greater percentage of underweight and malnourished children in the rural district than in the city."

Miss Breckler told of the plan of the council to establish a nutrition camp for undernourished children this summer.

A pretty wedding of early spring was solemnized last night at the home of Mrs. C. H. Leonard, E. Center-st., when her daughter, Miss Lillian Elwyns Leonard, was married to Mr. Earl F. Woodruff, Rev. Cooking Problems
Will Be Solved

Have you, in your cooking, a problem which you have long wanted solved? A problem, which perhaps, has bothered you considerably and yet remains the illusive, insoluble one of years' experience in cooking?

That problem you will undoubtedly be able to solve this coming week when Miss Hinkley will be in Marion to give you such service as you long wanted. Miss Hinkley is coming here under the auspices of the H. Schaffner Co. and will conduct classes in practical cooking for four days of next week in the Schaffner store from 2 until 4:30 o'clock.

You will have the privilege of discussing any phase of cooking you may wish with Miss Hinkley. Past experience has proven to other women elsewhere that Miss Hinkley is most gracious and kindly in answering questions and it is not probable that she will change her quality of service when coming to this city.

"All questions will be answered as far as I am humanly able," Miss Hinkley is quoted as saying in an advanced interview, "regardless of what they are. These classes are to be your classes and I am coming to Marion to be of such service to you as I possibly can. These classes have always been very informal and I want you to feel that the ones we are to conduct together next week are to be no different. You may fire questions at me as fast as you can and I assure you that I shall be very glad to answer all of them."

Aside from her aptness in solving problems, Miss Hinkley has a most interesting and instructive way in explaining methods and ingredients, and you will not feel lost in a sea of meaningless words when she has finished her day's program.—Adv.

Meditations
OF A
Married
Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

The average man, Leap Year means more to him than to the woman, who thinks she has the "exclusive right" to a man's heart, discovers that he is radiating his love.

When a man begins to love that way, look in his eyes, while he is kissing you, what he sees is a new light in another woman's eyes.

A woman may agree to bury the hatchet after a quarrel, but she always marks the spot, so that she can go and dig it up again, to re-enforce her next argument.

It's LOVE, when you can think of helping her with the dishes and running the vacuum-cleaner as "just a lot of fun."

This "companionate marriage" which looks so sensible and alluring to a girl of twenty, may not have the same appeal for her at thirty, when she sees her former "soul-mate" gallily tripping to the altar with a sweet young thing of nineteen.

"Brunette wife finds blonde hairpins around the house, on return from Paris—and starts divorce." Well, what do these wandering wives EXPECT to find when they come back? Prayer books?

You don't have to have high blood-pressure or a Paris divorce, these days, in order to be in the mode. Frost-bitten knees are far more de rigueur and tricky.

Everything comes out, dried, and canned, nowadays—except real love and baked potatoes. Copyright 1928 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Once upon a time, the lowly shepherd's check was snubbed by society, but it's all the style now. Colleen Moore wears this two-toned check of velvet for afternoons. It has a fingertip jacket, pleated skirt and a delft blue overblouse piped in deeper blue. Note that it's collarless and depends upon a diminutive felt shoulder bouquet for finish.

"Two Stolen Idols" A Story of Love and Adventure

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

CHAPTER 45

FOLLOWING creek at north end of the island, a half mile from the shore, was a small, rocky, and somewhat desolate spot. The opening in the forest was a narrow path, and the ground was covered with low-lying plants and ferns.

Bob Kingsley read this over and over again, and then he looked at the map. He knew where the island was, but he was not sure of the exact location. He had to be very careful, for the island was small and the forest was thick. He had to find the opening in the forest, and then he would be able to see the island.

When he awoke again, it was for the second time at the sound of Nana's voice. But he was not instantly alert as he had been before. He sat up in his bed, and he looked at the clock. It was ten o'clock. He had been asleep for a long time.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDITH M. LEWIS
TODAY was Saturday. A fella has to wait a long time for Saturday to come along, but it has always come, so far. Saturday and Sunday has two disagreeable things. Sunday I have to clean the stable and Sunday my aunt thinks she has to wash and polish me. If it wasn't for them two things and Sunday school a fella could save a lot of time.

The wind wasn't blowing so much today, but my mother said she hoped it would keep on blowing some. She said that the wind dries the ground up quicker than the sun does, and that shows that I am right when I say that women aren't so very bright. I bet she thinks a hard wind would roast a turkey quicker than a fire would. But she is my mother and she has a right to believe whatever she wants to. But I hope she won't try to feed us a turkey roasted in the wind.

My grandfather says that St. Patrick's day is going to be school today this year, and I am glad of that. It ought to be. Every day that can be made a holiday ought to be made one. It comes on the seventeenth of this month, and Easter is going to be a holiday, too. I am better off than I thought I was. But I haven't got my two bits any more.

When I told the bunch that I would have to clean the stable after breakfast they all said they would wait for me, so I fed my face and swiped some bacon and pancakes for Jubilee, and then when I went out to the barn they were all gone but Yonah. Whilst I cleaned the stable she set up on the feed box and talked to me and told me how strong she thought I was and everything. Then she asked me if I remembered that this was Leap Year, and I didn't know anything about it. Then she said to let's get married, so that no one could get us away from each other, and we wouldn't tell anyone anything about it, and I asked her how folks got married and she said they had to get a license at the courthouse. So we went to the courthouse and went in to a place and asked the man how much was a license to marry and he looked at us, and then he called a lot of people over and said, "Look what wants to get married!" And they all laughed, only one woman said "The darlings!" Then the man asked me if I had a thousand dollars, and I told him I hadn't and we went out.

When we had spent the two bits for butter and all day suckers and were eating them we were glad we hadn't spent all of our money getting married.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

PURPOSELY I steeled the words. "I stand ready to help you in any way at any time," with which I had finished my conciliatory speech to Eleanor Linquin. I did not dare to make the words more explicit, although I hoped she would be keen enough to understand that I did not mean them to apply wholly to the question of her dramatic history lessons.

But beyond an apparently involuntary catching of the breath she gave no sign that she read anything into my words other than the assurance of more sympathetic aid in her lessons.

"Thank you," she said perfunctorily. "I am sure of that. However, I do not see how you could be more helpful than you have been."

But there was a subtle friendliness in her voice which I never had heard before, and she did not leave my side again until Lillian finally declared herself satisfied to go home, and we piled into the cars for our return journey. Then she found the opportunity to whisper mischievously:

"I'll know my lesson better, Teacher, Tuesday. You'll see."

"I am sure of it," I returned, smiling. But I pressed tightly the hand she had held out to me, for I was sure I sensed a strained half unconscious appeal behind her apparently gay whisper.

But there was nothing but gay gibing in the next whispered confidence which came to me.

"Pipe Phil!" Lillian muttered as she climbed into the seat beside me. "He's so tired and bored that he's frothing at the mouth, yet he's playing the devoted to your mother-in-law as if he were the most blissfully happy man in the land. Girl, you sure have that hombre tied fast! I expected him to bolt this party about five hours ago. Isn't Life Wonderful?"

She chuckled diabolically as my eyes followed hers to the car in which Mr. Veritzen was installing Mother Graham. I was so afraid that my employer would hear her mirth and guess its cause that I gave a great sigh of relief when Mr. Veritzen entered the car, and Otto closed the door and mounting to his own seat rapidly drove away. Young Mr. Jackson with Mary, and Eleanor Linquin with Noel had gone ahead, as had Dicky with Junior and Marion. Katherine was with Mother Graham, and Lillian and I, as is always our custom, had been checking up with Katie to see that nothing was left behind on the beach. Making sure that Jim had no trouble in starting the old car with the truck body in which he and Katie were taking back our belongings to the farm, I slipped into gear and followed the Veritzen limousine, making no answer to Lillian's rallying until we were well upon the road.

"That speech may appear very humorous to you," I said, dourly, "but I assure you that—"

"You see no mirth in it?" she interrupted. "No," with an irresistible air of judicially considering an important question, "it is hardly to be expected that you would. But I can assure you, old dear, that if you look into it carefully, you will find that it was a very salty speech—really. However, that's beside the question. When we get home are you ready to produce that piece of paper upon which you set down by my request your notion of the conditions Phil Veritzen made to Mary when he decided to overlook the masked dance episode?"

"I don't need to wait until we get home," I told her. "I haven't changed my mind since I wrote the verdict down. It has been strengthened today. Suppose we compare notes now." Copyright, 1934, Newspaper Features Service, Inc.

PASTORS PLAN WEEK'S SERVICE

New Series Open at Central Christian, Calvary and Herman Street M. E.

Final arrangements have been made for opening of revival services Sunday at Central Christian, Calvary Evangelical and Herman Street M. E. Church, it was announced today.

The revival meetings at the Christian Church will continue for two weeks with services at each service by Rev. J. J. Tisdall, pastor of the Christian Church at Mansfield and president of the Ohio Christian Missionary Society. Reverend Tisdall has won for himself a wide reputation as an evangelist and has held pastorates in Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus and Pittsburgh. Music for the evangelistic campaign will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tuckerman of Huntington, W. Va., two eminently successful workers in the evangelistic field.

Services at Calvary Evangelical Church, to continue with services every night during the week, will open Sunday night when Rev. Victor Walter of Hambur, Northern Nigeria, British West Africa, will speak. Rev. John Owen of Taylor University, Ind., will preach at services the coming Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Local talent will have charge of the music.

Rev. George in Charge
Rev. Frank P. George, D. D., who is a lecturer, cartoonist and evangelist, in addition to being pastor of Community Church, Herman-st., will conduct the special evangelistic campaign to open these Sunday and continue each night during the coming two weeks, with the exception of Saturday. A special feature of the service will be the cartoon to be made by the pastor preceding the service each night at 7:15 p. m.

Dr. George travels throughout the Middle West engaging in religious cartoon and evangelistic work and between meetings serves as pastor here. Sunday morning, when the revival opens, he will preach on "The Mystery of Godliness" and Sunday night on "The Fundamentals."

With services Sunday, the revivals in progress at Forest Lawn Presbyterian and Prospect Street M. E. Churches continue for the coming week. There will be meetings at both churches each night, except Saturday, at 7:30 o'clock. Special services have been planned for each night of the coming week at Forest Lawn Church beginning with "family night," Monday, when Rev. Howard L. Oelwiler, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will preach and when each member of each family with all members present will be presented a gift.

At the "Young People's service" Tuesday night the pastor, Rev. John A. Carrier, will preach on the subject, "Young America in Peril." Wednesday night "every member night," Rev. Carrier will preach on "Myself and My Church" and the service will be followed by a congregational meeting to discuss next year's budget.

"Men's night" will be observed Thursday when Rev. C. B. Gee, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Delaware, will preach and when the men's quartet will sing. Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor of Oakland Evangelical Church, will preach at the "ladies' night" service Friday.

In his sermon, "What Is the Matter with Young America?" to be preached Sunday morning at the church, Rev. Carrier will endeavor to answer the following questions, "What is the matter with the average American parents? Have they done their duty in the home? Are they in for a severe indictment? and what does God expect of them?" He will discuss at length the subject of crime and the fact that the modern American criminal, according to statistics, is the American boy just out of school and that 90 per cent of the crimes committed are the deeds of boys and girls under 21 years of age.

Marion Ministers

Interesting Facts Concerning Local Pastors Revealed in Interviews

—BY FRANCES JENNINGS—

MARION'S second youngest in point of years but second oldest in point of residence, is Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed Church and vice president of the Marion County Ministerial Association.

Reverend Weckmueller came here in Mar., 1923 a graduate of

REV. H. F. WECKMUELLER

Central Theological Seminary, Dayton, and was ordained into the ministry and installed as local pastor July 26 of the same year. At the present time, there is only one other Marion pastor, namely Rev. J. W. Schillinger, who has devoted longer service to a local church.

It was after two years study of agriculture and during his convalescence from an illness of scarlet fever that Reverend Weckmueller came to the decision which was to determine his career in life. The desire to enter the ministry came not as a "call" nor at the behest of his parents but after study and work in other lines had pointed out definitely to him in which field greatest success and happiness lay.

Studies Theology

Using the credits he had received as a student of agriculture at Milwaukee State Normal School, Reverend Weckmueller began his study of theology at Carroll College, Waukegan, near Milwaukee, Wis., and graduated in 1920 with honors and with the degree of bachelor of arts. He next studied at Central Theological Seminary in Dayton, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity, in 1923, upon completion of a three year term.

Almost immediately upon graduation he received his call to the pastorate of First Reformed Church and came here to assume his first charge in 1923. Since that time, largely through the efforts of the pastor, the new $77,000 church was built and the parsonage completely remodeled. In that length of time, too, the young pastor received 139 members into the church, officiated at 61 funerals and 21 weddings.

Second only to his interest in the church is Reverend Weckmueller's love of books, his desire to read being one of the reasons he so readily gave up the study of agriculture. He also is interested in all forms of recreation, particularly basketball and baseball and took an active part in those and other sports during his college days.

In addition to his duties as pastor of the Reformed Church and vice president of the Ministerial Association Reverend Weckmueller is vice president and manager of the Marion County Chautauqua Association, is a member of the committee on religious education for the Reformed Church in the Synod of Ohio, and chairman of the committee on religious education for the Central Ohio Classis of the Reformed Church.

20 Years Old

Reverend Weckmueller was born 20 years ago in Jackson, Wis., the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Weckmueller. He spent the greater part of his life in Milwaukee, where he was located with his parents when he was a year old and when his father, a schoolteacher, accepted a government position in that city. He graduated with honors from Washington High School there in 1915 and from the Milwaukee State Normal School in 1918.

During his student days, summer vacations, etc., Reverend Weckmueller held a number of odd jobs and positions. For a time he engaged in lumber business with his father, and on still other occasions worked in a commission house, with a telephone "gang," as a ditch-digger, and in a pea canning factory.

Throughout his life Reverend Weckmueller has been a devoted churchman, having become a member of Grace Reformed Church, Milwaukee, at an early age. He is the only member of his home church to enter the ministry and the first member of his family to take up this work. Reverend Weckmueller holds as one of the most interesting of his church experiences the religious survey work in which he participated in Springfield, Mass., during the summer of 1922.

Report Published

The work completed at that time under the direction of a committee on social and religious research of the Federal Council of Churches, New York City, was recently published in a book entitled "The Springfield Survey" and edited by Dr. H. Paul Douglas.

While a student at Carroll College, from which he graduated cum laude and with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, Reverend Weckmueller became a member of Beta Pi Epsilon, a social fraternity, Delta Sigma Nu, scholastic fraternity, and Phi Alpha Tau, forensic fraternity.

Associated with him in church work here is his wife, a devoted worker in the church, a teacher in the Sunday School and a member of the church choir.

The Social Message

A SERMONETTE

By REV. IRVIN KAUFFMAN
Pastor Greenwood Evangelical Church

THE question of what place the social element shall hold in matters of religion is as old as Christianity itself. Its discussion has given rise to two extreme opinions and it may be said that the history of Christianity is simply the history of the church as it has swung from one of these extremes to the other.

In the early centuries of her existence a life of inward holiness was fostered more and more until it resulted in the almost absolute exclusion of social intercourse. The life of the cloister came to be considered as the nearest approach to the ideal Christian life and the monk was looked upon as a model of piety and devotion. A selfish spirit was thus cultivated which in time almost completely crowded out the spirit of Christ.

The church realizing her mistake, began a movement in the opposite direction—a movement which in some instances has reached its climax in the adoption of extreme social characteristics. Means for attainment of bodily health, physical development and Intellectual growth, has in some instances come to be looked upon as the sum total of Christian privileges. For this reason the church often is charged with having entered upon a materialistic period that is largely devoid of power.

We are anxious to know what place our Lord gave to social betterment in the program of His kingdom. A study of His teachings reveals the fact that He assigned to matter of this kind no mean place in His plan of kingdom building. We need to cite one scripture as a proof of the fact that Christ's program embraced a decidedly social element. In His great discourse on the last judgment we hear Him say: "I was an hungry, and ye gave Me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave Me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took Me in; naked, and ye clothed Me; I was sick, and ye visited Me; I was in prison, and ye came unto Me." And He added, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me." This was our Lord's social program.

The church has included in her task the building of hospitals, orphanages, homes for the aged, etc. Thus she is about the Master's business. As we see her about her work of relief, rescue and restoration let us not fail to note that it is the hands that bear the nail prints that are binding up the wounds.

Thank God for the wonderful social program of the modern church. But do ministrations of this sort constitute our whole task? By no means. In the words of the Scripture, "There is a more excellent way." Our Master would doubtless speak to the church as He spoke to the religiousists of His day, saying, "These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone. Peter and John accosted by the lame man at the gate of the temple represent the early church facing her task. She is empty handed but by no means helpless. Peter fastening his eyes upon the lame man said, "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk." The church has a goodly supply of silver and gold today; but has she the power to make men walk in the ways of righteousness and peace?

ARMY OFFICER SPEAKS AT KIWANIS MEETING

Mt. Gilead, March 10—Lieutenant Colonel William M. Munn of the Intelligence Section of the U. S. Army discussed preparedness for war, and a general preparedness program before the Kiwanis Club in their weekly luncheon under the topic of "Knocking Uncle Sam." Munn has been a member of the Intelligence Section since pre-war times.

Munn favors preparedness from the individual citizen standpoint. He announced many societies that favored "Peace at Any Price" and said these were obnoxious. He used the example of the burglar in this point stating that he picked on the least guarded prospects for his loot.

He commended Roosevelt's policy of "Deal Justly, Speak Softly, and Carry a Big Stick."

NEW GARAGE BUILDING TO BE OFFICIALLY OPENED

Mt. Gilead, March 10—The features of the new Ford garage, erected by Day Stauffer, local agent, were revealed for the first time yesterday when the boards were torn off the front of the building. Two conspicuous display windows are the first to attract the passer-by. A closer inspection shows a beautifully planned interior.

The building is of two story type, made of brick. It will embody a display room and a parts counter, a garage room, paint room, storage room, grease and wash rack. March 17 is the date set for the official opening.

PIPE ARRIVES FOR CENTER-ST SEWERS

Work on Improvement Project To Start Next Week, Announcement

With pipe for the two sewers on the ground, construction work on the sanitary and storm water sewers on W. Center street from Oak to the Hocking Valley tracks, will start next week, Henry Drake of the firm of P. Drake & Sons, announced today.

Light standards on the west side of the street, which have blocked the work, are being removed by the C. D. & M. Electric Co., and are being stored according to agreement made with city council. This is a part of the contract for a new lighting system awarded to the electric light company last Monday night.

It is the plan of contractors to build the sewers west from Leader-st to the Hocking Valley tracks, Leader-st being the outlet for both sewers. If the weather continues favorable, it is possible that construction will be started east at the same time, Mr. Drake said.

Since paving projects are impractical until after the freezing season has passed, it is the intention of the contractors to complete as much of the sewer construction as possible before warmer weather makes paving possible. The north side of the street will be paved first and light standards that are being removed by the electric company will not be replaced until the new system is established. After the completion of the north side, the standards will be removed from the south side and the new lights installed. By this method the street will not be entirely without lights at any time.

Radio Takes Spotlight From General Motors as Week Closes

New York, March 10.—Speculative interest at the weekend centered around a few of the motor, steel and specialty stocks which have been making stock market history since last Saturday morning. Radio corporation took the play from General Motors at the beginning of trading today when a block of 25,000 shares of the stock was bought outright to 114, an advance of 6 1/4 points from Friday. General Motors rose only one point to 160 3/4 in the first period but the turnover at 100 was unusually heavy. Stock traders in all parts of the country have jumped to the conclusion that if General Motors executives were willing to pay $300,000 in cash for 200,000 shares of their own stock at record high prices there must be important future developments of which the outside public is still unaware. This is Wall Street's explanation for the avalanche of buying orders from all parts of the country which, combined with "inside" buying and pool activities, have pushed the price up 25 points in little more than a week. Wall Street estimates of new profits won by prominent traders in the stock this week range all the way from one million to two million dollars.

"Y" ONE OF BUSIEST CENTERS IN MARION

At Least 700 Persons Take Part in Association Activities Daily, Estimate

Day in and day out the Marion Y. M. C. A. is one of the busiest spots in the city. An estimate made by E. O. Rudolph, physical director, placed the average number of people participating in "Y" activities around the 700 mark. Every day a multitude of activities are in progress in the old building on S. State-st. Men, women, boys and girls all find something of interest in the daily program.

In the physical department alone, according to a report completed by Director Rudolph for January, a total of 7,311 people took part in activities. This makes an average of 272 each day.

This does not include other departmental work, such as boys' work, bowling, swimming and a number of others. During the month covered by Rudolph's report, 26 class periods were conducted for men with an attendance of 992. This included club meetings, policy ball, business men's classes, women and night and senior and intermediate classes.

Attendance in the boys' classes totaled 1,318 for 64 class periods. Thirteen classes for women and girls with an attendance of 190 were reported. Sunday School and independent basketball teams rented the gym floor 38 times with an attendance of 420. The swimming pool and gym floor was used by 80 Boy Scouts. It was estimated that 4,000 spectators witnessed games during January.

The bowling department did much to increase the total of people taking part in activities. This division is one of the most popular at the "Y."

In politics, if you know what you want, you've got "political connections."

FEBRUARY INTEREST ON FUNDS $2,462.81

Auditor Says Earnings Are Largest for Month in History of County

County funds on deposit during February earned interest amounting to $2,462.81, County Auditor Earl E. Thomas announced today following receipt of bank statements. This, the auditor says, is one of the largest monthly interest totals in the history of the county.

This unusual amount of interest earnings was due to the semi-annual tax collection, which kept the county's balance at a high figure throughout February. The amount on deposit at the close of the month prior to distribution of tax funds to the various subdivisions, was more than $1,000,000.

Interest receipts for January and February totaled more than $4,100, the deposits earning approximately $1,700 in January. The six banks in the city of Marion and four in villages of the county are official depositories for county funds. Interest rates range from two and a quarter per cent on active deposits up to $4.50 on inactive accounts.

Depository interest receipts last year totaled $21,788.15, the auditor's records show. Most of this revenue goes to the county and the balance is prorated among the other taxing subdivisions.
